Prisoners Seize Oakalla Guard

City Editor Makes Bargain: Extra Edition for Man's Life

Razor at Throat Scissors at Back

VANCOUVER — A newspaper city editor yesterday bargained with three violent Oakalla prisoners — an extra edition of his paper for a guard's life — and won.

The three desperate convicts held a razor at the guard's throat and a pair of barber's shears pressed against his back for six hours until Bruce Larsen of The Vancouver Province promised he would write their story.

Ernie Loveless, the guard, walked away from the three men on unsteady legs when he was released, along a 90-foot corridor to Larsen. The two men shook hands.

Bob Tremblay, Marcel Frenette and Charlie Talbot — all serving 20 years for attempted murder — "kidnapped" the 38-year-old Loveless at 1.40 p.m. when they were on their way to the barber shop.

APPEALS FAIL

They had learned shortly before that their appeals against conviction had been quashed.

One of the men grabbed a razor and held it at Loveless' throat. Another held a pair of barber shears against his back.

They kept armed guards at bay with the threat:

"Stay back. We have nothing to lose through cutting his throat. We've got 20 years and another charge waiting."

Loveless was forced to the floor and his hands bound with wire. Later Tremblay, 34, asked for handcuffs to replace the wire.

They released Loveless at 7.25 p.m., only 15 minutes after his wife and their two children, Bryan, 13, and Barbara, 6, learned of his ordeal of terror.

FIVE HOURS

Larsen, 29, told in the "extra" which went on the street shortly after 9 p.m.—first late night extra of the Province since the Second World War—how he bargained for five hours for Loveless' life.

Tremblay, key man in the trio, asked to see Larsen after they had held the guard for about an hour. The two had met about a year ago when Larsen collected $97.50 for a Province camera which had been damaged.

Tremblay told Larsen the facts had not been out during their trial for attempted murder in the beating last June of Thomas Kinns and asked him to run the complete story in the Province.

"Tremblay had made jumbled demands, many of them inconclusive. . . he wanted me to print everything he said," Larsen reported.

"I told him I would write what I could, within reason, if he would take the razor from the guard's throat. I told him we would publish this extra in return for a man's life. Tremblay agreed."

Warden Hugh Christie and his senior officers stood at the far end of the long corridor during the interview.

Only message Loveless was allowed to get out was a request that his wife and children not be informed of his danger.

Guards with rifles at the ready stood at the far end of the corridor while Larsen talked with the convicts—the closest any prison official had been to Tremblay, Frenett and the hostage for six hours. Talbot, 36, was acting as go-between—walking along the tensely silent corridor from one group to the other with messages.

Five men, Tremblay, Frenette, Talbot, Lucien Mayer and James Malgre, had accepted their sentences with stoic indifference when sentenced in September.

Yesterday, 28-year-old Frenette was dragged screaming and kicking from the B.C. Court of Appeal after his appeal was rejected.

"FRAME-UP"

He screamed to Mr. Justice Sydney Smith that "this is a kangaroo court. This is a frame-up from beginning to end."

Mayer, 49, has been committed to Essondale mental hospital.

Lawyer Larry Hill, who sat in on the long session, had told the court during the appeal that one of the chief witnesses against the five men had written a statement recanting evidence given at the trial.

The three are also charged with narcotics violations.

Larsen said last night that after Talbot had a final message session with warden Christie, Frenette unbuckled the handcuffs which held the guard.

"Strain showed all over Loveless' reddish face," Larsen said.

When Loveless had been released to Larsen and the two men were walking down the corridor, the city editor said:

"It's damned fine to see you walking."

Loveless, his clothes rumpled and his walk unsteady, replied:

"It's wonderful and I thank you.

LEGS WEAK

"My legs were a little weak, my throat too dry," Larsen said. "I tried to speak but Loveless was allowed to come with me. We shook hands."

"Although I was frightened throughout the action, I knew, because Tremblay had asked for me, that there was a hope I could talk him out of it."

"I guess I really didn't think about anything else but the chance I had to free the guard."

Ben's Trainer Gets Dunked As Swim Ends

Dramatic climax to Ben Laughren's third unsuccessful attempt on Juan de Fuca strait yesterday came when his trainer, Ove Witt, fell into the water while helping the 274-pound swimmer into a rowboat.

Laughren, who swam 8½ miles, helped the disconsolate Witt back into the rowboat and the pair regained the schooner Black Dog.

"It was a terrific swim, and Ben made wonderful time until the weather got too bad," said Witt last night.

"But in the last two hours we figured he barely covered a mile, and there seemed no chance of the winds lessening."

The Victoria chef ran into a strong chop and 18 m.p.h. southwesterly winds.

He left Horseshoe bay, below Beacon Hill park lookout, at 2.40 p.m. and was in the water for five hours and 42 minutes—until 8.22.

For the first few hours observers reported that he was moving at a "tremendous rate of speed." At 5 p.m. a slight chop began and grew steadily worse.

By 7 p.m. the weather was "very bad" and the wind was 10 to 12 m.p.h. and growing stronger.

Brain Surgeon Flies to Scene

Crushed by Rearing Horse City Doctor Fights for Life

Dr. Anne Steel of Victoria, improved but still in critical condition after emergency brain surgery at Oliver, B.C. may be flown here this morning.

She was operated on yesterday by Dr. John E. Harvey, noted Victoria neuro-surgeon who was rushed to the south Okanagan centre by private plane from Patricia Bay.

Another leading city surgeon, Dr. W. A. McElmoyle, also worked with Dr. Harvey to save their colleague's life.

Dr. McElmoyle said in a conversation with The Daily Colonist—hurried because he could spend little time away from the patient—that Dr. Steel's condition was "very serious."

Her general practitioner partner here, Dr. Charlotte Dohan, said later Dr. Steel's condition was "still critical but much better than it was 36 hours ago."

Dr. Dohan said Dr. Harvey had bored a hole in the 36-year-old woman's skull to relieve pressure. Another operation was performed to open the windpipe.

Arrangements were being made to fly Dr. Steel to Victoria, if possible, Dr. Dohan said.

Dr. Steel fell from her horse when it reared while she was riding it down a rocky trail at Anarchist mountain, about 20 miles east of Osoyoos. The animal rolled on her head.

Her husband, Phillip, a school teacher at Osoyoos, had started down the trail ahead of her. Their two children, Phillipa, 9, and Tony, nearly 5, were also riding with them.

Dr. Harvey was rushed to Oliver in a twin-engined plane piloted by Claude Butler, general manager of Butler Brothers Supplies Ltd. Dr. McElmoyle had left overnight by boat and bus for the interior city.

Also waiting anxiously as close as possible to her bedside were Dr. Steel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Cookes, 1560 Despard. They flew to Oliver Sunday morning.

Dr. Steel, who had been on a two-month vacation since early April, came to Canada from Scotland after being graduated from Edinburgh University and received her medical degree in Vancouver. She interned at St. Joseph's Hospital here and has been practicing about eight years.

Provisional Decision

Esquimalt Holds Rate at 31 Mills

Esquimalt council struck a provisional mill rate of 31 last night, the same as the previous year's, and decided to meet later this week to set a final figure.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele explained that increased school costs, up from $98,000 to $114,000, required 14.4 mills. General rate was consequently set at 16.6, and the budget trimmed to allow it.

Public works expenditures are up $10,000 to about $70,000 this year.

"We'll provide a breakdown of figures within the next day or two," Reve Wurtele said last night.

Council would report to the people, he said, in two or three weeks' time.

Archbishop Angers Frustrated Crooner

LONDON (Reuters)—The Archbishop of Canterbury is reported to have written to American crooner Don Cornell telling him that his religious songs "hardly accord with taste in this country."

Cornell, now touring Britain, wrote to the archbishop complaining that the British Broadcasting Corporation had banned five of his hit songs.

In his letter, The Daily Mail says, the crooner detailed the songs, and gave the text of one of them, "The Bible Tells Me So."

The archbishop's reply, the newspaper reports, said:

"I have not played the records but I must say that the words of this song would in my judgment be found somewhat discordant when heard out of a religious context, and even in a religious context they would hardly accord with taste in this country."

Cornell, who has cut his planned three-month tour by four weeks, was quoted as saying: "I'm going back to America where I will get $100,000 a week on a television show—and the archbishop can preach what he likes."

Don't Get Caught!

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — An error in translation gave devout Christians in the Negro republic of Liberia a wrong impression of the Lord's Prayer, it was disclosed Sunday.

"The phrase "lead us not into temptation" was translated for Liberian people as "do not catch us when we sin."

The example of translators' pitfalls was given in the annual report of the National Bible Society for Scotland.

Oak Bay Would Set Water Speed Limit

Oak Bay council wants to set a speed limit for power boats in waters adjacent to the municipality.

Council decided to ask provincial authorities to designate Oak Bay's as "minor waters," which would make it possible to enforce a speed limit.

Council did not intimate whether municipal police would become waterborne.

Against 'Augmented Dangers'

Congress Urged To Provide $4,900,000,000 More Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration urged Congress Monday to invest an additional $4,900,000,000 in foreign aid as insurance against "augmented dangers to the free world."

"Military assistance is still needed and defence efforts cannot be relaxed in any degree," John Hollinger, director of the International Co-operation Administration, told the Senate foreign relations committee.

"Although today Soviet tactics are placing greater emphasis on economic overtures to the less developed nations, there is no indication that the danger of military aggression is over.

COMMUNIST BUILD-UP

"Communist military build-up in many parts of the world and communist distribution of modern weapons provide augmented dangers to the free world."

The administration is asking foreign aid funds for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Its new budget is $2,200,000,000 more than Congress voted last year.

Under questioning, the foreign aid chief said "there always is danger" of a renewal of fighting in Korea.

President Eisenhower sent his semi-annual report on the mutual security program to Congress today, disclosing that the United States has shipped more than $12,400,000,000 worth of weapons and other military supplies to its free world allies in the last six years.

'Celebrate Saanich Birthday'

Coun. T. J. O'Neill pressed his colleagues to draw up a program for celebrating the 50th anniversary of Saanich municipality's incorporation this year and asked that a suitable holiday be named as a special sports day to commemorate the occasion.

"Half the year is gone and yet nothing has been done," the councillor asserted. "Soon it will be too late to pay due homage to past reeves, councillors and pioneers who built this great district."

Councillors O'Neill and Lea Passmore were appointed by the reeve to recommend a suitable program and date.

Socreds Woo Prairies

REGINA (CP) — The four leaders of the Social Credit movement last night appeared together for the first time on a public platform.

National leader Solon Low, national president Rev. E. G. Hansell, Premier W. A. C. Bennett of B.C., and Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta, combined forces at a political meeting held in connection with the forthcoming Saskatchewan elections.

All four told a crowd of 1,750 that Social Credit would triumph in the approaching contest.

Premier Bennett advised candidates to woo the ladies. "Never mind the men, win the ladies—they have 51 per cent of the vote anyway," he said.

Russian Couple Marks Century of Marriage

OTTAWA (CP) — Celebration by a Russian couple of their 100th wedding anniversary is reported in the Soviet news bulletin, issued by the Russian embassy here.

The brief item says:

"Ahmed Adamov and his wife, Manna, who live in the village of Sulezkent in the Shuragat district of Daghestan, have just celebrated their 100th wedding anniversary. Ahmed is 121 years old, and up to 1950 he still worked on the Voroshilov collective farm."

As Out and Out Tory

Boss Backs 'Good Fellow'

Millionaire's Butler Runs for Council

BAGSHOT, England (UP) — Sir Simon Marks, a chainstore millionaire, announced yesterday he planned to vote for his butler who is running for office next Saturday as a Conservative.

The butler, Donald Kenneth Collins, is the very model of a lifetime gentleman's gentleman.

"Why shouldn't he run?" challenged Collins' boss. "I shall certainly vote for him. He is a good fellow and public spirited. We sometimes discuss politics together."

Collins pitched his bowler into the ring for a seat on the Bagshot rural council, the local government organization that administers the luxurious Sunningdale area where he buttles in the Marks mansion.

Moreover, Collins announced his candidacy on the ticket of Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden's Conservative party, not the Labor party, and it may be just as well.

The seat represents "Millionaires' Mile" and no Laborite has won as long as anyone can remember.

"The time has gone when a butler had no interests other than his boss," Collins said. "There has never been any objection in this house to my having a political career."

Collins said that as a butler he feels he can ably represent the needs of the millionaires and their mansions in Sunningdale.

"Some of the houses still are not on the main drainage," he said. "We also have a housing shortage.

And who can be better than a butler who is trained for service to serve the public in local affairs?"

Mother Doomed To Die

No One Killed

Truck-Train Wreck Hurts 100 Children

WAUKESHA, Wis. (UP)—A gravel truck smashed into a special train carrying 1,000 school children to a Milwaukee [illegible] ing the train and injuring more than 100 persons.

But amazingly no one was killed.

The truck plowed into the 16-car Milwaukee Road train at a crossing about four miles north of here and 17 miles west of Milwaukee at the village of Duplainville.

Ten cars were derailed. Two fell on their sides, six piled up crosswise across the tracks and two were derailed and leaning.

Within minutes more than 100 police were at the scene and autos and ambulances sped the injured to Waukesha hospital.

"It was an awful mess, but the kids were very co-operative," Sheriff Mike Lombardi said. "Some of the injured were screaming, but the ones that weren't hurt were busy taking care of those who were."

Rescuers grimly smashed through windows to reach some of the badly hurt youngsters. Lombardi said many suffered broken legs.

Others were picked up in the fields where they had been thrown by the impact.

Virtually all the injured were children.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

Equal Quotas Asked

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Commons members Monday called for an all-out effort to equalize Prairie rail shipments of grain in the light of a new policy on quotas for deliveries by grain producers.

Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia said he is disturbed by Trade Minister Howe's announcement last Thursday that no special provision will be made, as in previous years, to equalize delivery quotas among Prairie shipping points at the end of the crop year July 31.

He said there are "grave injustices and inequalities." At the start of May, 478 points had a quota allowing farmers to deliver two bushels of grain per specified acre. Another 572 stations had a three-bushel quota; 602 stations had a four-bushel quota and 400 stations had a five-bushel quota.

Mr. Argue said this variation is due to "a gross and unfair allocation of boxcars at this moment."

Victor Quelch (SC—Acadia) said that, because no attempt will be made to equalize delivery quotas, it is essential that no more boxcars be allocated to places with high delivery quotas until other points have been enabled to ship more grain and obtain higher quotas.

Mr. Argue said the efforts of Mr. Milner to direct rail transport have been thwarted by the "failure" of the railways to provide boxcars.

Farmers could not deliver more grain to country elevators unless there was storage space. And there was storage space. And there could not be space unless the railways provided boxcars to move out grain.

Transport Minister Marler said there has been close co-operation on grain shipments among Mr. Milner, the Canadian wheat board and the railways.

He said that between April 16 and May 31 the railways planned to load 54,715 carloads of grain at Prairie points. That would require an average 1,368 carloads daily. In fact, daily shipments had not fallen below 1,490 and on one day reached 2,340.

Caterpillar Invasion

Annihilation Still Possible

There is still time to annihilate the caterpillars, the crawling pest that is beginning a mass invasion of farmlands, private gardens and roadsides, entomologists report.

Officials report that most of the common insecticides containing DDT or malathion are effective. Or better still, the pests may be burned.

Insecticides should be used, however, before trees are in bloom. The caterpillars leave tents 10 days after hatching and then feed steadily on vegetation.

Farmers report there is no consistency in the attacks by caterpillars. G. A. Vantreight Sr., Tyndall road, reported the nests appear dormant in his area.

Sidney residents said many tents have broken with caterpillars in abundance beginning to feed on fruit trees.

The caterpillars amount to a plague every seven to 10 years, the last onslaught being in 1946. Officials and farmers are not sure whether this is a plague year or whether the 1955 infestation was the height of the circle.

Garden Notes

Shrub Borders Much Less Work

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Almost every gardener these days has a hankering for the air of permanent furnishing given by flowering shrubs. One of the big attractions, of course, is that a shrub garden requires so much less work than herbaceous perennials or beds of annual flowers. There seems to be a general belief, however, that shrubs are only for the larger gardens—that they take up too much room for a small place.

This isn't entirely true. Of course, you can't expect to grow the gib lilacs and oversize rhododendrons in a pocket-handkerchief garden, but there are quite a few small shrubs which will bring distinction and pleasure to even the tiniest garden.

MAY REACH 10 FEET

The Chinese witch hazel is one of these. While it may reach 10 feet in height if grown on rich soil and in a sheltered position, in most gardens it is no more than half this height. Its fibrous root system prefers a rather sandy loam for anchorage, and its curious spidery yellow flowers are borne in mid-winter.

Everyone admires and covets a magnolia, and while most of this family grow as big as a lilac bush, there is one, Magnolia Stellata, which is a very slow grower, and will take as long as 15 years to reach a height of five feet. Fortunately for the owner of a small garden, Stellata begins to bear its lovely flowers very early in life, when the shrub is little more than a foot high.

UNIVERSALLY POPULAR

The flowering cherries are universally popular, but the ones usually seen are suitable only for fairly spacious gardens. Prunus incisa is different. Left alone to go its own sweet way, it makes a pretty good-sized bush, but this subject is so good natured, it can be kept cut hard back without affecting its profusion of blossoms.

One of the brooms, Cytissus praecox, makes a low spreading bush only three feet high, with long arching sprays studded with cream-colored flowers in April.

DEEP BLUE

Near the end of the flowering season, when most of the shrubs have completed their performance for the year, the deep blue spikes of Caryopteris Chandonensis begin to appear. This is a lovely dwarf shrub that rises no more than two or three feet, and the blue of the flowers harmonizes so well with the grey of the deeply-cut foliage that the shrub attracts attention right up to the middle of October.

EASY DOERS

All the aforementioned are easy doers, and don't present much of a challenge to the gardener. If you want to test your skill with a really temperamental subject, try Pieris Forrestii. This one is a lime-hater, like the camellias and rhododendrons, and requires a specially prepared bed of mixed sandy loam and leaf mould in a semi-shaded situation. It'll probably break your heart, but if you should succeed in winning its affection, you'll really have something to show for your careful culture.

The flowers are lovely—just like lily of the valley—but its crowing glory is its new foliage. As the spring buds burst, the shrub becomes a blazing mass of brilliant crimson leaves!

Mercy Plane Carries Girl To Her Death

BELLA BELLA, B.C. (CP)—A seven-year-old girl being flown to hospital at this coastal community was killed instantly Sunday when the plane crashed on landing.

Dead is Linda Simpson.

The amphibian plane was landing near the Bella Bella hospital, 300 miles northwest of Vancouver, when it hit a submerged object and capsized.

Pilot Rudolph Aldiran of Klemtu escaped with minor injuries. The girl was dead before rescuers could reach her.

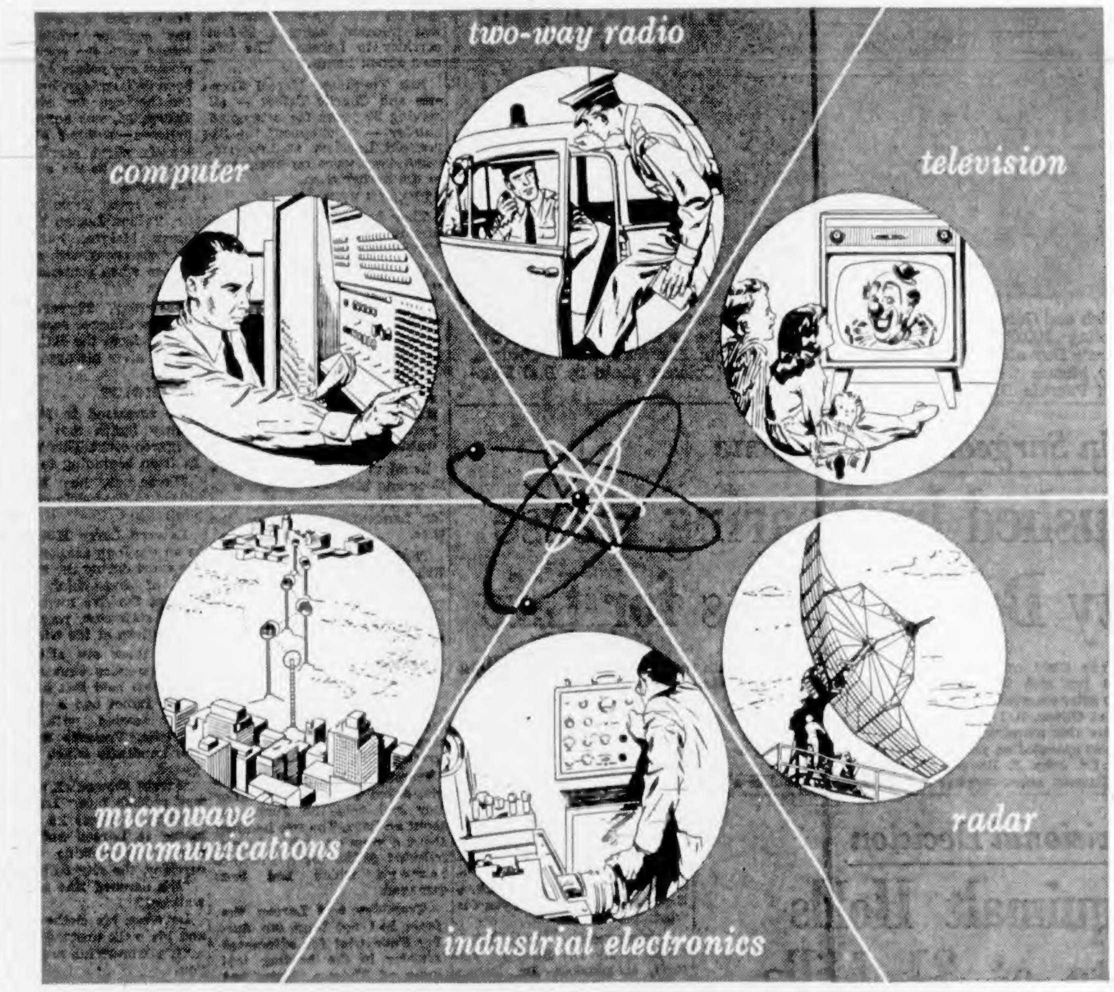
The Benefits of Electronics are everywhere...

helping us to live better electrically



From early radio to TV and today's computers, electronics has speeded progress in industry, defence, communications, safety, and home comfort

Remember those early radios—how hard they were to tune? How they whistled and howled? They were a far cry, both in design and performance, from the streamlined radios of today; yet they helped to change our lives because they were one of the beginnings of electronics. Over the years a great many new uses have been found for electronics. Today, though radio and television are still its most widely known applications, electronics affects almost every phase of our lives.

Electronics benefits us in many ways

Electronics has reduced the size of our world through microwave, flashing words and pictures across the country at the speed of light. Microwave provides the long distance TV hook-ups, an almost unlimited supply of long distance telephone circuits and special communications facilities such as teletype and facsimile.

Two-way radio summons taxicabs, maintains police and fire contacts, aids on construction jobs, provides telephones in cars, and serves us in many other useful ways.

Electronic computers speed research and industrial processes, requiring only minutes to work out problems that would take even highly qualified mathematicians months to solve.

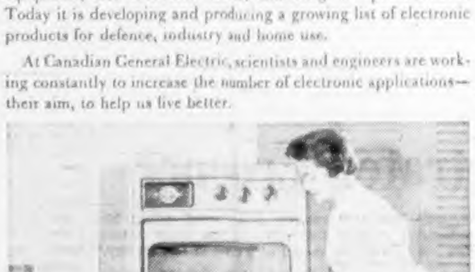
Radar, by showing objects beyond eyesight, guards our frontiers and brings new safety to our shipping lanes and airlines.

And industrial applications such as closed circuit TV, electronic sorters, thickness gauges and quality control speed and improve manufacturing processes.

In all these ways and many more, electronics benefits us all.

This Company was the first in Canada to build TV receivers and transmitters, two-way mobile radio, microwave communication equipment, and electronic tubes, including TV picture-tubes. Today it is developing and producing a growing list of electronic products for defence, industry and home use.

At Canadian General Electric, scientists and engineers are working constantly to increase the number of electronic applications—their aim, to help us live better.



This new G-E electronic oven will cook a 10 lb. turkey in 25 minutes; a 6 lb. frozen roast of beef in 45 minutes, 3 apple pies in 14 minutes. A special electronic tube changes electric current into ultra-high frequency radio waves. These penetrate food and cook it uniformly all the way through ... amazingly fast! Browning is done with oven's conventional Calrod elements.

Salmon Bonanza Forecast

VANCOUVER (CP)—Officials of the international Pacific salmon fisheries commission predict that 1958 will be a golden one for British Columbia fishermen.

They said Monday the greatest salmon run in memory is squeezing out of the broad reaches of Shuswap lake, 200 miles northeast of Vancouver, into the Thompson river, bound for the Fraser and the sea.

The sockeye fingerlings are the progeny of the fabulous Adams river run of 1954 which provided salmon fishermen in this province with their biggest year yet. The young sockeye have spent a year in Shuswap lake.

Loyd Royal, director of the commission, said there appeared to be twice as many fingerlings as in the big migration before the 1954 run.

Most of the fingerlings will be eaten by predators in the sea but even 10 per cent—estimated at 20,000,000 fish—will double the record 1954 run when they return as adults in 1958.

Fire Conditions May Force Early Logging Shut-Down

Logging camps on Vancouver Island and the lower coastal area will probably be forced to close down operations a lot earlier this year in face of the

All fires were reported to be under control late yesterday afternoon with 33 still burning.

Worst of them was a fire sweeping through 40 acres of hillside timber in Howe sound, about 25 miles northwest of Vancouver. About 115 men were fighting the blaze in the Porteau district, 12 miles north of Horseshoe bay.

They may go into early shift-cutting mid-day work—any time now.

However, officials in the forestry department pointed out, there is little likelihood of a forest closure within the next few weeks.

"We don't quite see that it's necessary yet," said an official yesterday. "The only thing we're doing is restricting the number of fire permits."

FURTHER 66 FIRES

A further 66 fires broke out in Vancouver district bushlands during the weekend to bring the total number of fires reported since May 1 to more than 150.

It's the worst fire year since 1951.

Forest fires raged throughout British Columbia in the dry summer that year. In the five months between April and August then, there were 23 days with a total fall of 5.47 inches of rain. Last month, .54 inches of rain fell in four days, compared with 1.75 inches in three days in April, 1951.

"On the western shores of Buttle lake the snow is still down almost to the high water mark," the spokesman said. "They are still plowing away the snow to get into the woods. We can't very well order a general closure."

The situation is critical on Vancouver Island and the lower mainland but low hazard conditions exist elsewhere in the province.

Forestry officials here have ordered day-by-day reports from this area while the other districts send in weekly reports.

Deficit Wrong —Howe

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Monday there appears to be something wrong with figures showing a whopping deficit in Canada's foreign trade.

He told the Commons that the figures for the first three months of the year are only preliminary. Quite likely all the figures had not been reported. The increase in the deficit was "not at all consistent"

Canadian dollar in terms of the United States dollar.

He replied to George Hees (PC—Toronto Broadview) who sought comment on figures announced last week by the bureau of statistics.

The bureau reported a trade deficit of $123,700,000 in March, six times greater than in March, 1955, and an excess of imports over exports of $225,200,000 in the first three months of the year, up from $24,100,000 last year.

'Guilty Men' Must Not Play With World's Fate, Says Tito

PARIS (Reuters) — President Tito of Yugoslavia, who arrived here Monday on his first visit to Paris in 18 years, said Monday night that "guilty men" must never again be allowed to play with the fate of the world.

The method of solving differences by war should be rejected, Yugoslavia's top Communist leader added at a dinner given in his honor by President Rene Coty.

Eighteen years ago Tito lived in Paris as a hunted Communist agent recruiting Yugoslav volunteers to fight for the Republican side in the Spanish civil war. He carried false papers and had to dodge police.

Monday he returned with his attractive wife, Jovanka, in his own armored train for a six-day official visit and talks with French statesmen. And 20,000 police, soldiers and firemen were on duty to protect him.

In his speech at the state banquet, Tito declared that world statesmen, particularly of countries which were the victims of aggression, should learn the appropriate lessons from the Second World War.

What mattered was not to decide who was guilty, but that there should be no more guilty men and that a group of men should not be allowed to play with the fate of the world.

The Yugoslav leader, who defied Stalin and incurred a Soviet economic blockade on his country in the last years of the Soviet dictator's life, said a phase now has opened in which the barriers against peoples knowing each other are beginning to be eliminated and this must be continued.

Tito and his wife, a guerrilla heroine in Yugoslavia in the Second World War, are staying in a luxurious suite in the presidential palace as Coty's guests.

Soon after his arrival, Tito placed a wreath on the tomb of France's unknown soldier.

Monday night a youth ripped the Yugoslav rosette off the wreath. Police who took him away for questioning identified him as a Romanian national of Czech origin.

B.C. To Get More Judges

OTTAWA (CP) — Legislation to increase the number of high court judges in Quebec and British Columbia was passed by the Commons Monday.

The measure will add two justices to the present nine-member Supreme Court of British Columbia and increase the number of Quebec Superior Court judges from 47 to 51.

The bill was sent to the Senate.

The Alliance Is Taking Root

THE forming of a contact committee with the day to day task of keeping the members of the North Alliance Treaty alliance informed on what each is doing and all of them happy about that is a long-headed move. Quite apart from the honor which falls now to Canada with a place on the cornerstone panel in the person of Hon. L. B. Pearson, such a committee can give sturdy service in at least three directions: it will keep national contacts active, remove misunderstandings before they are set, and serve in some measure to pilot the march towards more permanent objectives under NATO.

The composition of the committee could hardly have been better. Canada, Norway and Italy are representative not of the power blocs of the world, but of the more numerous and fully as earnest middle states which between them give the United Nations, for example, its firm and tested body of public opinion. Within the confines of the North Atlantic alliance—until now purely a defensive body assembled along military lines—there is much that the free nations in the West can do to strengthen their social and economic ties, without in any sense weakening their defensive position. There is also much need of this extension. Soviet Russia is obviously carrying its propaganda to the world, using economic, political and every other means that can be laid hold of to that end. It is time that the West made its own counter; and made some effort to explain what it stands for and the reasons for its firm belief in a free and democratic way of living.

It may be argued that the alliance is only one segment of nearly 80 nations assembled under the United Nations' charter. It is, however, an influential one and its influence is not strained by power politics. On the contrary, NATO comprises self-determining, independent peoples who, seeing danger in the post-war flux in Europe, stood together to strengthen their lands and so lessen that danger. Beyond the initial defensive function now comes the practical and projected extension of that solidarity to broader purposes. All nations in Western Europe which are partners of the compact can help each other best when they keep in close liaison and agree on common aims ahead. That seems to be the central purpose of the three-nation continuing committee.

There could be no better counter to the divisive tactics of the Kremlin, which has opposed NATO from its inception. The alliance is taking root.

At Someone Else's Expense

AS an international gesture of good will the Canadian government would hardly have the cheek to ask one of Toronto's leading hotels to give permanent free lodging to a group of visiting dignitaries at the hotel's own expense. Yet the government apparently sees nothing odd in its request to the Toronto city council to grant tax exemption to the government of West Germany on property purchased for the establishment of a consulate. Ottawa has suggested that Toronto should do this as an international courtesy.

A hotel gets its income from renting rooms and providing service. A city council gets its revenue by taxing property in order to provide a variety of services—sewers, police and fire protection, upkeep of the streets and so forth. Why city taxpayers should do all that free for a consulate just so that Canada could appear hospitable in the eyes of a foreign government needs a bit of explaining. There is nothing wrong with the "gesture," but the wrong people are being asked to make it. Relations with the government of another country are the responsibility of the senior government of the Dominion, as Toronto City Council has pointed out caustically.

This request from Ottawa has brought to a head smouldering discontent in Toronto over the whole question of tax exemptions as far as the Dominion government is concerned. The city council has now threatened to cut off all municipal services if the government continues its refusal to pay taxes on $18,000,000 worth of Crown property there; and other cities, especially Victoria, may share Toronto's feelings on the subject. In principle no government, federal or provincial, should through taxes be made the vassal of a municipality; but that is no reason for the Dominion's failure to devise a more realistic and equitable formula of grants in lieu of taxes than the one now in effect. Cities and municipalities in various parts of the country where federal establishments abound are at a distinct disadvantage due to inability to obtain payment in some form for the services required by Crown properties. The drastic action contemplated by Toronto might make the Dominion conscious of what it owes to local bodies for their hospitality.

A Wise Investment

THE famous naturalist Luther Burbank said that every child should have mud pies, butterflies, tadpoles, animals to pet, brooks to wade, rocks to roll and hayfields in which to romp. These he thought an essential part of youthful education. Even in a garden city like Victoria youngsters cannot enjoy all of these things but they can easily have sand boxes, swings and see-saws. These too are conducive to the early physical and mental development of small children. They also help to keep them safely off the streets, a protective measure not as necessary in Burbank's day as it is now.

To that end the playlot idea has grown up in recent years, a home backyard area in which small folk may gambol well out of harm's way. Some cities have carried this scheme to fine results, with numerous parents co-operating by setting aside portions of their back gardens for this purpose. Advocates of the idea here have pursued a patient course for years, and once more an effort is being made to interest more parents than ever before. The playground contest initiated last year will be repeated this month on what the sponsors hope will be an even larger scale. Prizes and certificates will add zest to the competition.

Since the start of community play and recreation is in and around the home most parents should be favorable to the playlot idea. Knowledge that her children are happily disposed not far away is a relief to every mother. Where possible the thing to do then is to provide safe and practical amenities like swings and chutes and sand piles with which pre-school and early grade children may play. Not every home is sited to have a playlot, but there could be a hundred times more than there are in the Greater Victoria area. It is because of this that the Parent-Teachers sponsors of the contest hope for an enthusiastic response. A backyard playground is an investment in the healthful activity of young children and their safety.

NATO's Growing Pains

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

THE committee appointed by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to make plans for a co-ordinated economic effort in the cold war is going to run into many difficulties.

If the efforts of the individual nations, particularly the United States, are allowed to lag pending international action, which promises to be slow, Russia will be handed an important advantage.

* * *

Indeed, there is a serious question whether NATO can ever agree on methods of helping non-committed and under-developed countries outside its own ranks. There is a question whether, if it should agree it would be able to do the job properly. The character of the organization itself is against it.

NATO is designed to provide a background of military strength against which Western diplomats can work for peaceful settlements.

* * *

The nations which need help—primarily eastern nations—would consider co-operation with the organization a violation of the neutrality they are trying to maintain. They would be afraid of Russia's reaction.

As a means of further unifying the NATO countries, however, the new movement is important even though it may not produce much more than consultation.

Formation of a "one for all and all for one" economic organization paralleling the military organization would be very difficult, especially in view of Britain's obligations to the Commonwealth. It is doubtful that congressional approval could be obtained in the United States.

* * *

A consultative organization, however, in which the nations could discuss mutual interests and mutual difficulties, trying to avoid monetary and trade practices which hurt each other, would be valuable to the economic stability of the whole anti-Communist front.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax — of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

A PROMINENT SA lady complains that the Salvation Army tends to be too respectable. Now if you don't think twice this might shock you, seeing that respectability is supposed to be a virtue. But I imagine that all she means is that the SA must hold to its dynamic. Which in essence, you know, is to plough among the down and outs.

It was the urge to get down to bedrock—in his time the lowest levels of humanity—that caused William Booth to leave conventional church ways and start the "army" that's known far and wide.

His mission, still the credo of the SA, was to succour the poor, the shiftless, and the riff-raff of society.

A comment might be permitted though that nowadays you can't always tell a rag-tag; he might be dressed real respectably.

* * *

The other day I came across a note concerning the origin of the down-and-out theme that became the fiery cross of the Salvation Army. It's really an old prize-ring phrase, referring to a pugilist who's been knocked out so badly he has no hope of staging a come-back.

The SA gave this a new and heartening twist.

Once while food and clothing were being distributed to people made homeless by the South African war somebody referred to these unfortunate victims as down-and-outers. A SA worker took umbrage and retorted quickly: "A man may be down but he's never out."

That expresses the philosophy of the Salvation Army; in fact this worker's retort put optimism and hope in such plain, simple language it was adopted as the SA slogan.

In the western world I suppose there is no more familiar sight than the lassies with an SA bonnet or a more familiar sound than the music of an SA band. Everyone has stopped at least for a little while to watch and listen to a SA street corner meeting.

* * *

I don't imagine the prominent SA lady mentioned at the outset above had the same thing in mind at all but I remember that in the large city of my boyhood an SA street meeting was really something.

There would be the well-known circle and in the middle the band would lay the big drum down flat. Then between each hymn the onlookers would be invited to shower it with coins.

First the goal might be a shilling. If, say, 18 pence were thrown on the drum the cry would be: "Now then, another sixpence to make the (next) shilling!"

The ante would go up as each shilling was over-subscribed.

Different economic eras, different methods. But how the coins flowed in!

And sometimes from "down-and-outers" whom the SA would be rescuing before the night was over.

Maybe the "army" is turning too respectable, but that comment is the prerogative of its own folk. No one else would dare carp at it, I'm sure.

William Booth and his successors have done their work too well.

That is why an SA bonnet is a passport to safety in the meanest locality. The SA never forgets the bedrock of its founder, the men and women who may be down but who in its code are never entirely out.

On the Record

The King Is Dead . . .

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

PROBABLY nobody in history ever set in course such world-wide changes as Stalin did merely by dying.

The long-range effects in the Soviet Union are not yet predictable. Can the present variation of a Western cabinet system continue indefinitely without a broader democratic base, or will another great tyrant eventually emerge to re-freeze the pattern?

What have already been the effects on the satellite states? How long can present tendencies be allowed to continue there and what would be the effect of suppressing them?

How far can the West, led by the United States, safely modify a policy originally devised to repel direct Soviet military aggressions spurred by Stalin? To what extent is the thaw in the Soviet Union unfreezing Western military alliances, and what new policies are dictated by the events?

* * *

In Washington, London and Paris leaders have been asking themselves these questions without, so far, coming up with satisfactory answers. They are feeling their way. But we may assume that Moscow's leaders are also still feeling their way, and not without trepidation.

They are out to destroy the "cult of personality," namely of one personality, the late and unlamented J.V.S. But the second world power has been governed for nearly a generation by the power of that cult; by an omniscience. What authority can successfully supplant omniscience? A collection of individuals, however able, who until the passing of the titan were mere shadows in background, outlined, if at all, in the servile postures of lackeys?

For there was no resistance movement to Stalin in Russia during his lifetime that with his passing could, by historic judgment, claim the power. Bulganin, Khrushchev and Co.'s sole service to the Russian future was to survive. They did not emerge, white-haired and haggard from mines and labor camps, to represent the triumph of the opposition. Those who might have so claimed are in their graves, buried along with their abject confessions, and their rehabilitation fails to establish of what, precisely, they were innocent. If they did not "conspire against the state," namely against the omniscience, they were only victims, identical with the survivors, except that they failed to survive.

* * *

So there is playing upon the Russian stage what should be, one would have thought, a great king drama. But it lacks so far the elements of high tragedy. The black knight is embalmed but no white knight stands triumphant, holding aloft the sword of righteous vengeance—and of authority that has been won.

The knights, rather, caper like school boys released from an implacable master. One feels sympathy for them, induced by common relief. They obviously want to be liked by everyone—and this is winsome. But sympathy for them responds not to the tragic but to the comic. In London, students with the sure instincts of juveniles wittily gibed at them, without real malice, finding their visit great fun.

One cannot imagine that the omniscience would ever have visited London, or that if he had, the occasion would have been a picnic.

But in Russia and the Communist world, the problem of authority, which is basic to government, remains unsolved by any principles of legitimacy.

That is the dilemma that eventually faces all governments established by the violent overthrow of an established order.

"The king is dead!" The rest of the sentence is not finished by "long live Lenin!" He is dead, too.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

ONE very shocking aspect of the recent growth of United States cities and towns is the enormous junk yards full of worn-out motor cars.

"Fifty acres of used parts!" announces a huge sign on the highway approaching a very smart and prosperous little Illinois city. And sure enough a few hundred yards down the road, after passing suburbs full of most attractive little bungalows and ranch-type homes amdist spacious lawns and bright gardens, you come smack upon this ghastly acreage, in full view of the highway, in which thousands of old battered motor cars are tumbled together as in some grand finale of disaster.

This is not exceptional. It has become, in quite recent years since my last leisurely meander through the States, a commonplace of the American scene. These atrocious junk yards are not hidden away in back areas of the communities. They are prominently displayed. They appear to have as much right to the public gaze as the extremely smart new industrial plants, office buildings, shopping centres and plazas that brighten all approaches. Indeed, right next door to a beautiful shopping centre you will often find one of these grim boneyards of the automotive age.

And apparently the United Statesers—you will notice I am trying to get away from the use of the word "American" being being applied only to our co-tenants of the continent—are wholly accustomed to the situation. Free enterprise is so free that you are free to spend several million dollars establishing a beautiful suburban shopping plaza, and also free to establish right alongside it an eyesore that is peculiarly sore on the modern eye.

It is far more morbid than the sight of a cemetery. You can pass a cemetery, even a rather neglected one, with the stones standing awry, without any personal sense of doom or gloom. But the sight of 2,000 beat-up old motor cars jumbled in a junk yard gives your conscience a curious tweak.

Is this to be the end of this lovely purring car in which you are riding? All this pretty metal, this chrome, these shining dials, this masterful wheel: are they to end up in a dump? Inevitably, yes.

In its own interests, the automotive industry ought to insist upon high, vine-clad walls around all junk yards.

Friction Over Border Trade

By DAVID BARNETT
North American Newspaper Alliance

WASHINGTON—A major effort to smooth out economic friction between Canadian and United States interests is being made on both sides of the border.

Attempts to cool off the dispute, heated by forthcoming elections in both Canada and the United States, were made during the past week or so in these ways:

1. The Canadians took their complaints of growing United States protectionism directly to American corporation executives in closed-door conferences in Washington. Government representatives of both countries participated.

2. On the same day Mr. Lester B. Pearson, Canada's secretary of state for external affairs, in Montreal, told Canadians not to be "defeatest nor demagogic" about U.S.-Canadian relations. He said he did not believe the U.S. would "attempt to secure control of or unduly influence Canadian economic or political destiny"; nor would the people of Canada permit it.

3. A survey of sources of U.S. exports to Canada, made by the Battelle Memorial Institute of Columbus, Ohio, was released. Canadians say the survey supports their argument that the areas of the United States that benefit most from export sales to Canada are the same ones that cry loudest for government protection from Canadian imports.

Canada took $3,100,000,000 in U.S. goods last year, 19 per cent of all U.S. exports. The U.S., in the same period, imported some $2,700,000,000, which represents about one-fourth of all U.S. imports.

To make up the trade difference, U.S. investors have put about $6,000,000,000 in dollar investment into Canada, twice the total U.S. investment in Canada 10 years ago.

* * *

The heart of the Canadian complaint and fear is this:

Canadians are in danger of being exploited by and of becoming "diggers of holes" for the benefit of economic overlords from the United States.

Mr. Pearson rejects this as a "humiliating suggestion" that few Canadians will accept. But the suggestion keeps cropping up, particularly from political foes of the government of Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The economic nationalism that such charges intensify has resulted in governmental actions on both sides of the border that make the situation even worse—such things as the recent Canadian tax on U.S. magazines and the unsuccessful attempt by Maryland to prevent the establishment of a Canadian brewery in Baltimore.

The Battelle survey, made at the request of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs, traced the origin of $965,000,000 of last year's exports to Canada.

According to Canadians, the report indicated that American sales to Canada are of much greater importance to southern and western states than had been recognized.

Large quantities of citrus fruits and vegetables go to the Dominion from California and Florida, for instance, and huge quantities of textile fibres and associated manufactured goods are shipped from the southeastern states.

The report also indicated that small and medium-sized manufacturers in the United States benefit from Canadian trade in greater proportion than do large businesses.

Illinois, which ships machinery and vehicles, and California reported exports to Canada during 1954 accounting for a substantial portion of the total.

Letters to the Editor

Fight, Anyway

Criticism of a certain song, "We're Going To Fight To Keep Victoria British," has been invited by one of Victoria's radio stations. The song, both words and music, I presume, is the recent work of a young Victoria man and intended to accompany the members of our Chamber of Commerce on their tour of Western Canada.

As one who was born in England and lived there until eight years ago, I am very puzzled about the legend which insists that Victoria is SO British. I have lived in eastern Canada [illegible] at all in the way of life of the people in both places.

The homes here are the same as the homes in eastern Canada and no more like British homes than the hut of a native in darkest Africa. The school system here is exactly the same as that in other provinces and turns out typical Canadian products. The population here is as cosmopolitan as in every other town and city throughout the land. The way of life here is typically Canadian and as different from the British way as chalk is from cheese. The only possible claim that Victoria may have to resembling Britain in any way at all is in its climate and beauty of its waterfront and surrounding countryside.

And now the Chamber of Commerce boys, silk-hatted and monocled, are going on a goodwill tour or something, representing themselves as being so typically British. The tragedy is that the people who have the misfortune to listen to them will probably be gullible enough to swallow the whole thing as a bonafide performance.

These Burlington Berties should have done a little research beforehand. "A little knowledge is a dangerous thing." They will not only make a laughing stock of themselves but of the British people as a whole.

I call on every right-thinking Englishman, Irishman (North), Welshman and Scotsman to revolt against this ignorant libel.

Let us polish up the armor we put away after Agincourt; let us sharpen our arrows and saddle our nags. Let us go down fighting!

(Mrs.) MARY W. THOMSON.

Women Excluded

Your editorial "Broadmindedness on Liquor" interested me. If the restriction of serving hard liquor is to be lifted from the approved licensed dining rooms where they now sell wine and beer, it means more waitresses will be learning to serve liquor.

When this happens the cry will grow louder to eliminate the discriminatory clause in the Liquor Act that states: "19 (2) No female shall be employed in any service or act, or be permitted to act, in any way in connection with the sale, handling or serving of liquor in, on, or about any lounge."

I know of no other occupation in B.C. that women are restricted from entering by law.

The Same Language

During the last 10 years two graves ornamented with tiny Union Jack flags are passed on the writer's regular visits to take flowers to his sweetheart's grave at East Lawn. They are replaced regularly by American Legion members. Is it not tremendously impressive how persistent, all the years since Flanders Field and the first tanks, this kindly feeling between the Anzacs, Canadians, South Africans as well as Britons and our own American boys?

When writer passes those small flags, somehow there starts ringing in his ears the old trench songs, such as "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kithag," also "We Wish We Was in Blighty, We Does, We Do." Memories also are awakened by our own "Long, Long Trail," or "Slum and Beans," or "The Long, Lanky Gink."

Was not Prince Bismarck most canny when he commented the most important fact in any 19th century history is that Britain and America speak the same language?

Sign the Pledge

Victoria's grand old city hall is the mecca for all its people this week. The great challenge of justice is to be enacted by the signatures of men and women of good will. "Sign the pledge," that is truly democratic, and wipe away the shame of neglect.

As living costs rise the pension check dwindles. For these few dollars men sweated and toiled from dawn to dusk; in ice and snow and in the sun they labored.

The populace, glutted with new wealth is hardened by new ways of life and the pensioner is forgotten. Victoria with its lovely gardens and its beauty hides a sore of ugliness, its old and frightened pioneers. It pours out its welcome to the refugee but forgets its own. Let the city hall petition refute the black spot on the City of Victoria.

In this petition there is justice and honor for these cheated ones. Many have fought the terrible wars; bled upon battlefields and now fight hunger and cold. Arise, citizens of Victoria and show the world we revere our men and women whose courage created the nation called Canada.

Centennial Stamp

Re the B.C. centennial stamp, wouldn't it be a grand traditional introduction to B.C. to have the RCMP (Mounties) on the stamp. Canada's human touch. From kids to grown-ups, from pole to pole, everyone knows, loves and counts on the Mounties. And a lovely gesture to Canada as a whole, too.

'Seagull' Sites Asked By Chamber Group

An appeal to Victorians to submit suggestions of historic and scenic sites in the area that could be marked with Chamber of Commerce seagull signs has been issued by project sponsors.

So far 14 metal signs, carrying site background and descriptions compiled by Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, have been ordered. However, only 12 sites have been designated for the markers.

"In a city filled with as much history as Victoria, there must be 50 suitable sites that should be marked for the benefit of both residents and tourists," said Robert Nelles, former chairman of the tourist trade group.

He said persons with knowledge of birthplaces of prominent historical figures or little known historical sites and buildings are urged to submit suggestions to the chamber.

First 12 signs, to be erected this year, will mark the following sites:

Mt. Douglas, Mt. Tolmie, Beacon Hill park, Art Gallery, Craigdarroch Castle, Gonzales observatory, legislative buildings, Thunderbird park, Helmcken House, Government House, Craigflower school and the "rings in the rocks."

LAST ITEM

The last item, Mr. Nelles pointed out, was probably one of the least known historic points in the city. The rings are the metal mooring rings for the sailing fleets of yesteryear. They are embedded in a rock near the waterline adjacent to HMCS Malahat on Wharf street.

"These rings were in use when Victoria was the west coast's big commercial outlet—when sailing vessels left with cargo for the Spaniards in California, the Russians in Alaska [illegible] the snow [illegible] frontier," Mr. Nelles said.

In conjunction with the markers project, the chamber will sell commercial maps to hotels and motels in the area, marking points on the proposed "scenic route" with tiny seagulls. The city may paint street lines in red or [illegible] the route to facilitate an easily-followed sightseeing tour for visiting motorists.

Blind Eye Sees Again After Rap

WHITBY, Ont. (CP)—A 75-year-old man blind in his right eye since birth said Saturday he has been able to see with both eyes since he fell and struck his head a week ago.

Nick Rudeck said he blacked out in his home April 28 and fell, striking his head on the radiator. When he went to shave the next day, he found he could see with his right eye for the first time.

Mr. Rudeck said he was born with an inward cast in his right eye. Doctors had told him some years ago that an operation would right the cast but would leave him still sightless in one eye.

He told them he was too old for an operation.

"But the radiator was my surgeon," he grinned.

New Regime 'Generous'

"After the Olympic games they will go home in the thousands," he added. A big Russian team will compete in the games here in November.

'Andersonville' Awarded Pulitzer Prize

MACKINLEY KANTOR

NEW YORK (AP) — MacKinley Kantor's "Andersonville" Monday won the Pulitzer prize as the best novel of the year.

The prize for the outstanding drama went to "The Diary of Anne Frank" by the husband-writing team of Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett.

The 1956 prize in journalism for meritorious public service was won by the Watonville (Calif.) Register-Pajaronian.

The national reporting award went to the newspaper "for its courageous exposure of corruption in public office, which led to the resignation of a district attorney and the conviction of one of his associates."

Three newspaper men divided the award for international reporting.

RUSSIAN INTERVIEWS

They are William Randolph Hearst Jr., of the Hearst Newspapers; Kingsbury Smith of International News Service; and Frank Conniff, editorial assistant to Hearst.

The award was for a series of exclusive interviews with leaders of the Soviet Union.

Two men shared the prize for local reporting. They are Lee Hills, executive editor of the Detroit Free Press, and Arthur Daley of the New York Times.

The trophy for outstanding national reporting was won by Charles L. Bartlett of the Chattanooga, (Tenn.) Times "for the original disclosures that led to the resignation of Harold E. Talbott as secretary of the air force."

'Frogman' Questions For Eden

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Eden will be asked in the House of Commons Wednesday to answer some of the questions posed by British newspapers since the mysterious disappearance of a "frog man" April 19.

Retired Lt.-Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb, a Second World War hero, was last seen in Portsmouth harbor in the lee of the 12,800-ton Russian cruiser Ordzonikidze which brought Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev here for their recent visit.

LARGE INDUSTRY

Britain's ship-building and ship-repair industries had 205,000 employees at the end of 1954.

Something To Jingle

Business is booming in Ottawa's mint where coins of the realm are made. Every year sees more demand for coins, and in the past two years production has more than doubled, with dimes and quarters most in demand. Last year's output put coins valued at over $5,000,000 in circulation. At work here are sorters who are examining coins for imperfections which would cause them to be returned for remelting and restamping.—(CPC)

Yes and No, Says Minister

Are Cancer, Smoking Linked?

LONDON (Reuters) — The government said Monday two known cancer-producing agents have been discovered in tobacco smoke, but refused to launch a national publicity campaign against smoking as a cause of lung cancer.

Health Minister Robert Turton told the House of Commons "in the present stage of our knowledge a national publicity campaign would be inappropriate."

As to the cancer-producing agents found in smoke, he said: "Whether they have a direct role in producing lung cancer, and, if so, what, has not been proved."

"The extent of the problem," he asserted, "should be neither minimized nor exaggerated."

"The number of deaths from cancer of the lung has risen from 2,286 in 1931 to 17,271 last year," he said.

He added that "the chairman of a committee of the medical research council which has been investigating the subject considers that . . . there is statically an incontrovertible association between cigaret smoking and the incidence of lung cancer."

"The statistical evidence from this and other countries to which he refers tends to show that mortality from cancer of the lung is 20 times greater among heavy smokers than among non-smokers.

About 20,000,000 of Britain's 50,000,000 population are estimated to be smokers. They spend £880,000,000 a year, of which about £668,000,000 goes to the government in tax.

In Four Hours 312 Sign Plea

Elderly citizens in a fairly steady procession visited city hall yesterday to sign a petition for a $25 increase in the old-age pension.

William J. Hyde, who drew up the petition, said that in the first four hours yesterday, 312 persons signed.

The petition will be available for signature from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day this week at a desk just inside the main door of the city hall.

Mr. Hyde said copies would be sent to every government department in Ottawa to draw attention to the plight of old age pensioners.

Normal Weather Helps

B.C. Flood Peril Less

No serious flood will develop in B.C. as long as normal weather conditions continue, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said yesterday.

Water content of the snow pack has decreased markedly from that reported last month when the possibility of serious flooding was said to be threatening.

Except in local coastal areas the water content is within 20 per cent of the mean, with some areas being very close to average, the minister said.

"While this does not preclude the possibility of some flooding it is believed that provided normal weather conditions exist, no serious flood will develop," said Mr. Williston.

Canada Flocks To U.K.

More than twice as many Canadians as persons from any other Commonwealth country visited Britain in 1955, the Victoria Gyro Club was told yesterday.

Alistair McLean, Canadian manager of the British Travel Association, addressed the club at its luncheon meeting.

He said Britain's 1,030,000 visitors in 1955 included 54,000 Canadians.

Canadian dollars spent in Britain, he reminded the club, enabled Britain to buy more on the Canadian market.

'U.S. Greed Alarming Canadians'

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — Canadians are alarmed over the "ever-increasing domination" of their economic life by "greedy United States capitalists," a Canadian trade union official said here Monday.

William Kennedy, vice-president of the Communist-dominated International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers of Canada, said the vast potential and resources of Canada "attract people who wish to exploit these resources for their own benefit."

"There is a great deal of alarm among people in all walks of life over the continuing and ever-increasing domination of the economic life of the country by greedy U.S. capitalists," he said.

"Much of the raw materials of Canada are shipped in the raw state to the United States and sold back to Canadians as the finished product, while the profit both ways goes to the United States capitalists."

"Canada is a tremendous country within the Commonwealth and we do not want, and will resist, any effort to make it the 50th state of the U.S.A.," Kennedy said.

Norman K. McKenzie, 1035 Empress, was sentenced to prison, and two companions, charged jointly with him, got lesser terms at the young offenders' unit.

Bryan E. McIndoon, 18, was sentenced to 18 months determinate and two years less one day indeterminate. Donald Woodcock, 21, was sentenced to one year definite and two years less one day indeterminate.

McIndoon and McKenzie were sentenced to six months concurrent with the heavier sentences, for taking a car without the owner's consent.

Theft of $3,200 worth of bonds and jewelry was admitted in city police court yesterday by Thomas Batty, 20, of 205 Cook.

He was remanded until Friday for sentence on two theft charges. A probation report was ordered.

Batty was arrested during the weekend. City detective Louis Callan said Batty entered insecure premises at 1108 May.

The goods were recovered.

Committee To Study City Church Parking

A suggestion by Capt. D. J. Proudfoot that a four-church committee should be formed to make recommendations regarding the Sunday traffic hazard in the Pandora-Quadra area was approved by city council public works committee yesterday.

But the committee went farther and decided to ask Capt. Proudfoot to form a committee of all city churches to study parking and traffic regulation outside the churches.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow suggested that no-parking zones outside churches could, in some cases, be reduced in length or made applicable only on Sundays and Norman Worsley, head of the city's traffic section, noted that one church had asked for a "stop when occupied" crossing for Sunday school children.

Distribution Of Pamphlets May Be Halted

Public works committee will ask city council to pass a by-law prohibiting the distribution of pamphlets on public property without written permission from the police chief.

Police Chief John Blackstock told the committee that one man was handing hotel and auto court pamphlets to tourists driving off the wharf, and that the tourists were throwing them away on the roads.

"SAFETY FIRSTS!"

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Look them over carefully. Most of these important safety features were pioneered by Chevrolet—the car that has ALWAYS taken your safety seriously.

18 Safety Firsts . . . by Chevrolet . . . a vital demonstration of Chevrolet's consistent, many-sided leadership. Leadership, you will note, not merely in protective safety features – but in PREVENTIVE features. Features which bring you surer, safer control of your car . . . new ease, precision and security of handling under all conditions. This is no new concern of Chevrolet engineers, and it has always been gratifying to find other cars eventually adopting so many of Chevrolet's contributions to your motoring safety. Directional Signals, Safety Padded Instrument Panel and Seat Belts with Shoulder Harness, all are available to you with Chevrolet. The largest-selling, most-trusted car in the world MUST take a conscientious and a comprehensive view of your safety. And it does. Look over the record of Chevrolet Safety Firsts. It speaks eloquently for itself.

UNISTEEL BODY BY FISHER

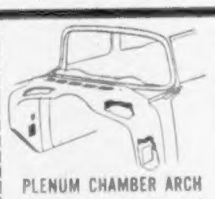
The famous all-steel, all-welded body – all components fused into a solid "Fortress of Steel", for your protection. A sense of security is standard equipment in Chevrolet.

BOX GIRDER FRAME

Extra-sturdy bumper-to-bumper strength – specially designed to carry the body lower – giving you a more solid, more comfortable ride, a safer, steadier hold on the road.

DOUBLE WALLS OF STEEL

Double-walled steel strength to the front, rear, and each side of you! Only Chevrolet in its low-price field gives you this dual security.

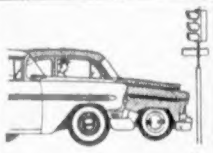


PLENUM CHAMBER ARCH

Massive resistance to road shock – an unusually strong bulwark arches from one side of the frame to the other between the engine and the front seat, giving extra strength and protection.

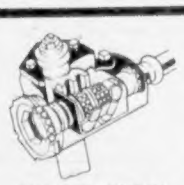
JUMBO-DRUM BRAKES

Hold the instant you touch the pedal – BONDED brake lining (no rivets!) Easy-acting, velvet-pressure 11" brakes on all 4 wheels for CONFIDENT stops.



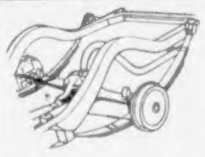
ANTI-DIVE BRAKING

Designed to prevent passenger-pitching "nose-dive" stops. This feature reduces braking dive up to 45% for safer, level-flight stopping.



BALL-RACE STEERING

A blessing for tight-spot manoeuvring! Recirculating ball bearings reduce friction, give you far easier, safer control. Chevrolet steering is precise, self-centring!

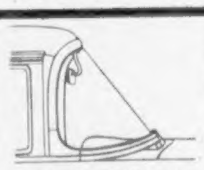


OUTRIGGER REAR SUSPENSION

LONGER rear springs are mounted outside of the frame for "rock-steady" cornering, superbly secure roadability!

GLIDE-RIDE FRONT SUSPENSION

Chevrolet's famed knee action with spherical ball-joint design allows each wheel to step over road irregularities – coil springs and double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers flatten bumps and ruts for smooth ride.



SWEEPING PANORAMIC WINDSHIELD

Chevrolet opened new horizons in the low-priced field with the wide-view Panoramic Windshield. Safer seeing!

CENTRE ROOF BOW

Greater overhead protection is provided by Chevrolet's unique double-ribbed roof bow that ties in with the door pillars, giving added strength and bracing to the all-steel Turret Top.

SAFETY GLASS ALL 'ROUND

A historic Chevrolet "first". Wrap-around rear window was another Chevrolet advance, making driving and parking very much safer.

SAFETY-AIM HEADLIGHTS

This new easy-aiming feature brings you FULL benefit from new sealed beam headlamps (80% more seeing distance – safer night driving!)

EXTRA-LOW-PRESSURE TUBELESS TIRES

Great resistance to blowouts, slower deflation if punctured. Announced first by Chevrolet in its field.

SAFETY DOOR LATCHES

Interlocking rotary safety door latches help to keep doors safely shut under impact. Chevrolet introduced them without fanfare in mid-1955, another forward step.

MID-BODY FRAME

For your protection Chevrolet's body is further strengthened by a rugged structure girding the centre of the body – top, side and floor for a sturdy mid-body frame.

BABY-GUARD REAR DOOR LOCKS

Important protection for your children. With lock button down, door cannot be opened even from the inside.

HIGH-EFFICIENCY VALVE-IN-HEAD POWER

You enjoy safer passing ability, prompter, smoother engine response – from the 42-year valve-in-head leader!

The HOT ONE'S even HOTTER in SAFETY, 'too!

VIEWS OF SPORT

By Red Smith

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Twice before in his 17 years on horseback, Dave Erb had mounts in the Kentucky Derby and twice he finished tenth with longshots. Now he was riding Needles, the favorite, the most celebrated Florida tourist since Ponce de Leon, and he was 16th with a horse that didn't want to run. With five-eighths of a mile of Churchill Downs track ahead of him and only one horse behind, Needles spit the bit.

"You always have some hold on a horse," Erb explained, "and if he turns the bit loose you got nothing. I thought, 'migawd, what now?' It was only a few strides and then he took hold again."

Needles got to moving again, and at the three-eighths pole on the far turn a path opened in front of him and Erb gunned him through. There were plenty more in front with no room to get through. Erb swung him to the outside. That's when the crowd saw them—the big bay colt with the heart-shaped star on his forehead, the sharp-faced man in orange and blue silks.

They came sweeping down the home stretch with a big, bold rush, not a rush like Whirlaway's, perhaps, but a long and impressive move. An eighth of a mile from the wire Needles caught Fabius, a willing pacemaker, and the race was over there. Without benefit of the weight advantages he had enjoyed in Florida, with virtually the whole field in front of him and the whole job to do, he showed himself best of these 17 and possibly the best three-year-old in America. That's all even the most provincial Floridan had asked of him.

He Went Boom

It had been an exciting race, before one of the biggest crowds in 82 years, in weather as gloriously lovely as any calvary post ever enjoyed, and now Erb was telling about it in the steamy and stifling room where the jockeys dress. A handsome small boy stood at his shoulder, gazing around at the pushing, shouting throng that clamored about them. A photographer called to the boy to move closer.

"This is my son," Erb said, sliding an arm across the kid's shoulders. "This is DeeDee—David Darrell Erb." They hugged each other for the pictures, and Erb told how scared he had been when Needles acted up. His tone was conversational, his manner matter-of-fact. He might have been chairman of the board conducting a minor business meeting.

"When I asked," he said, "he went—boom."

Pressed to rate the horse as good or fair or great, Erb clung to conservatism. "He's the best three-year-old in the country," he said. "I'll tell you that. But he's got other engagements ahead and until he shows in those I wouldn't want to call him great."

Needles and Fabius, who finished three-quarters of a length back in second place, have shipped to Pimlico for the Preakness on May 19. Needles is also eligible for the Belmont Stakes and could become the first triple crown winner since Citation in 1948.

What They Talk About

"When did your horse run out of puff?" Willie Hartack was asked. He had taken Fabius to the front, past Terrang, on the far turn and kept him going stoutly, even after Needles nailed him.

"He didn't run out of puff," Hartack said. "He just got beat. He was still running at the end."

There had been some doubt that Fabius could carry 126 pounds over a mile and a quarter, and Hartack remarked that he still thought the colt's stablemate, Pintor Lea, a better horse. Pintor Lea suffered a wrenched knee before the derby and never was better than fifth Saturday.

Back in 1951 when Eddie Arcaro had been aboard a beaten favorite there was a crowd around him in the jockey room and he quipped that "They want to know how I loused it up." Saturday he laughed when a friend really put that question to him, not seriously. He rode Head Man, which tired and finished eighth.

"I didn't have much chance to louse this one up," he said. "I had a pleasant journey, going along there third and fourth. I just needed some stock." He seemed to agree with most observers that Head Man doesn't like so much distance.

Men Also Run

Always after a race like the derby, the visitor is impressed anew with the realization that these little men are strictly professionals. They understand what the public doesn't always realize: That a horse race is a chancy business in which anything or everything can go wrong, and there can be only one winner. So they get used to disappointment.

Arnold Kirkland, who had hoped to win with Countermand, was keenly disappointed because his mount never got anywhere and finished last. Even so, he spoke calmly, hiding his feelings. Countermand had kept fighting him, he said, trying to go wide on turns.

"He never did that before," Kirkland said, "the sucker waits till the derby to act up."

As the hubbub began to subside, the noise of a television set came through from an adjoining recreation room. A kid named L. C. Cook, wearing silks for the next race, sat in a big leather chair watching the screen intently. He's seen derbies before and even rode in one. On the screen, John Landy was racing.

Needles Earns Record Derby Purse

Exploding through the stretch after being 25 lengths behind the leader and in 16th position, Needles crosses the finish line three-quarters of a length ahead of Calumet Farm's Fabius (hidden) to win the richest Kentucky Derby in history Saturday before some 100,000 fans. On the outside is Mrs. Helen Kellogg's longshot, Come On Red, who ran third. Needles, ridden by Dave Erb, netted his owners Jack Dudley and Bonnie Heath a record $123,450.—(International Soundphoto.)

Dodgers Below .500 After Loss to Braves

Brooklyn Dodgers, who one year ago yesterday owned a glittering 20-2 record and went on to win the National League pennant in record-breaking time, are finding the road a bit rougher this season.

The Dodgers, defending world champions, Monday dropped their ninth decision in 17 games and dropped below the .500 mark for the first time since the opening game of the 1954 season when they were stopped, 3-1, by the six-hit pitching of Milwaukee's Bob Buhl.

Scoring his second victory without a defeat, Buhl twice got out of tough situations when he forced Jackie Robinson to hit into rally-killing double plays. Victory kept the Braves in first place on percentage although they trail St. Louis and Cincinnati in games won and lost.

SENSATIONAL DEBUT

The Cardinals moved into a tie for second place by downing the New York Giants, 6-3, despite a sensational major league debut by Bill White. Called up Monday from Minneapolis in exchange for Gail Harris in a first-base switch, White blasted a home run in his first time at the plate and added a double and single to spark the Giants to a 3-1 lead.

But the Cards scored five runs in the fifth inning on three singles, two of them bunts, a wild pitch, a hit batsman and a sacrifice fly against starter Windy McCall and relievers Hoyt Wilhelm and Marv Grissom.

INDIANS SKID

In American League action Monday, Cleveland Indians dropped three games behind league-leading New York Yankees when they lost a 5-1 decision to the Boston Red Sox.

Tom Brewer, 24-year-old righthander, gave up only two hits in the first eight innings but had to pitch his way out of trouble in the ninth when the Indians scored their only run. Brewer, in gaining his third victory, retired the first 16 batters in order, seven on strikeouts.

In the other American League game, Baltimore Orioles moved into sixth place by gaining their third straight decision over Detroit Tigers, 4-3. A bases-loaded single by Hal Smith in the ninth inning plated the winning run.

TWO FOR YANKS

New Yoork Yankees, who have made it a haabit of knocking off the key contenders, swept two games from the Chicago White Sox Sunday by identical 4-0 scores. Whitey Ford breezed to his fourth straight victory in the opener as Yogi Berra hit his eighth homer and Hank Bauer smashed his sixth.

Rip Coleman and Jim Konstanty combined in the second contest as the White Sox fell below the .500 mark with their fifth setback in six games.

Kansas City pounded out 29 hits to down the Washington Senators, 10-7, and 13-3, while the Baltimore Orioles stopped the Tigers, 6-2 and 4-3.

REDLEGS CLIMBING

Cincinnati's hard-hitting Redlegs continued to climb, clubbing Philadelphia 10-2 and 11-9. The Redlegs, who have won 10 of their last 11 games and clubbed 36 homers in 18 games, were led by Ted Kluszewski and Gus Bell, who smashed homers in each game.

Dusty Rhodes singled home the winning run in the ninth inning to give the New York Giants a 5-4 victory over St. Louis in the second game of a doubleheader. The Cards took the opener by the same score on the strength of Stan Musial's eighth-inning homer.

Upsets Mile King

Cutting loose a tremendous drive in the final quarter, Australian runner Jim Bailey (right), attending the University of Oregon, upsets countryman John Landy (left) in the featured mile race at the West Coast Relays Saturday before 40,000 spectators at Los Angeles. Landy, who holds the world mile record of 3.58, broke the four-minute barrier for the fifth time Saturday but was beaten by one-tenth of a second as Bailey turned in a sensational 3.58.6 effort.—(International Soundphoto.)

Balding, Brydson Clip U.S. Stars But Canada Trails in PGA Meet

Al Balding and Gordon Brydson, a pair of Toronto shotmakers, beat the cream of the United States PGA money-winning crop Monday, but the Americans still walked off with a 5½ to 3½ lead in the four-ball competition of the fifth annual International PGA team matches.

Playing at the Colonial Golf Club in Fort Worth where the $25,000 Colonial National invitational tournament wound up Sunday, Balding and Brydson bested Mike Souchak and Cary Middlecoff, 5 and 4, to give Canada three points.

Souchak, the former Duke football star who leads the money-winners on the pro trail with $12,859.43, collected $3,000 Sunday for finishing first in the Colonial tourney with a 72-hole total of 280. Middlecoff, who finished out of the money Sunday, is runner-up to Souchak in total winnings.

Tommy Bolt, who finished second to Souchak on Sunday with a 281, and Gene Littler swept all three points from Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver and Murray Tucker of Toronto with a 6 and 5 triumph.

Doug Ford and Ted Kroll defeated Bill Kerr, a Montrealer who has played in all five international matches, and Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que., one up and gained 2½ points to a half-point by the Canadians. Leonard was fresh from fourth-place finish in hte Colonial meet.

The U.S. which has won the previous four competitions, is favored in the six singles matches today.

Pacific Coast Baseball League president Leslie M. O. O'Connor has suspended Sacramento manager Tommy Heath for three days, fined two umpires who failed to show up for a game and banned polka dots.

O'Connor, who promised before the season started that he would rule the eight-team loop with an iron hand, also slapped minor fines on both Heath and Sacramento coach Ferris Fain and sharply reprimanded the manager.

Heath was suspended for his failure to have men in the coaches box for the second game of a doubleheader in Portland April 29. The manager and Fain had been thumbed from the field in the first game after a hassle with the umpires.

STRIPES OKAYED

During the same afternoon two Sacramento pitchers wore shirts with large polka dots on the sleeves. Previously, the use of striped sweat shirts by Portland had been okayed.

Umpires Cec Carlucci and Gordon Ford were fined $50 each for failing to show up for a San Diego at Vancouver game on April 30. They claimed they'd been given incorrect schedules.

O'Connor pointed out the schedules were printed in the newspapers and otherwise announce. He gave notice that in future situations, if they arise, the umpires will be fired.

MOUNTIES LOSE

Meanwhile, one game was played last night with the Vancouver Mounties dropping a 6-4 decision to the Los Angeles Angels when shortstop Witty Quintena's ninth-inning error with two out paved the way for three unearned runs.

The Angels stretched their lead over Sacramento, which split a doubleheader with San Francisco on Sunday, to a full game. Seattle, in third place two games behind, missed a chance to gain when it suffered a double setback at Portland on Sunday.

Tennis Club Hopes To Stage Cup Tie

Directors of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club Monday night agreed to continue negotiations with the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association for the purpose of staging the North American Davis Cup tie between Canada and the United States in Victoria in late July.

The directors felt that the extra seating required to accommodate the cup tie can be secured. Seating accommodation for at least 1,500 spectators, preferably 2,000, will be required for the city hosting the matches.

If satisfactory financial arrangements can be worked with the CLTA, there is a definite possibility that the two teams will play here. However, both teams must be in favor of playing the matches on grass courts.

City Bowler Finishes Second in Pin Playoff

Ron Coulter of Victoria missed a chance to represent Canada in the American Bowling Congress-sponsored Masters tournament at Rochester May 14 when his late rally fell 42 pins short in the Canadian tenpin championships at Winnipeg over the week end.

Coulter, the B.C. champion, finished in second place in the four-man rolloff at three Winnipeg alleys Saturday and Sunday. Paul Leduc, 45-year-old alley operator from Valleyfield, Que., won the championship with Bert Gasser of Toronto, 1954 Canadian titleholder, in third place and Steven Pedersen of Lethbridge in fourth position.

Coulter, who trailed Leduc by 66 pins following Saturday's five-game block, dropped 114 pins behind going into the final five games Sunday. Leduc blew to a 140 game in the opener but managed a 181 average through the last four games to wind up with a 2,736 total.

Coulter turned in the best five-game block of the two-day tournament, rolling 957 for his last five games to wind up with a 2,694 total. Coulter, who topped the 200-mark only once in his first 10 games, included games of 223 and 202 in his last five.

What's Cooking! By Frances Thompson

Canada Flour Unsuitable For English Cake Recipes

So my first piece of advice is to use Canadian recipes originated and tested with Canadian flour. Another point which is extremely important is the oven temperature. And so is the position of the cake in the oven. You experienced cake-makers who are fully familiar with these pointers will forgive my reference to them this morning. But many years ago I refuse to say how many when I first tried baking in an electric range the results were ghastly.

FOR MEASURING

ONE EGG CAKE

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Beat shortening till smooth and soft—this is quickly done if you leave it for a time at room temperature before beating it. Gradually add sugar, creaming until fluffy. Add flour and milk a little at a time, and alternately. Beat until smooth after each addition.

PEANUT COOKIES

Cream butter, add sugar and blend thoroughly. Add well beaten eggs. Sift flour with baking powder and salt and add alternately with the milk. Fold in coarsely chopped nuts and vanilla. Drop in teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets and bake at 350 degrees about 20 minutes. They spread slightly so space well.

Drably-Dressed Russians May See French Fashions

The Association of Couturiers, an extremely influential group in this country, wants the matter brought up when headed by Premier Guy Mol French would like to stage a gigantic fashion show the likes of which drably gowned Russian women can only have dreamed of

There is optimism here that the Soviet authorities will give the idea a green light. Recently a British fashion group was invited to Moscow and put on the first western style show in the Soviet capi

The sewing is awful. Dresses that cost $60 or $75 look home-made which they are, since the fashion industry in Russia is almost entirely carried on by inexpert seamstresses who work at home with little supervision. Shoes, handbags and hats they are indescribable.

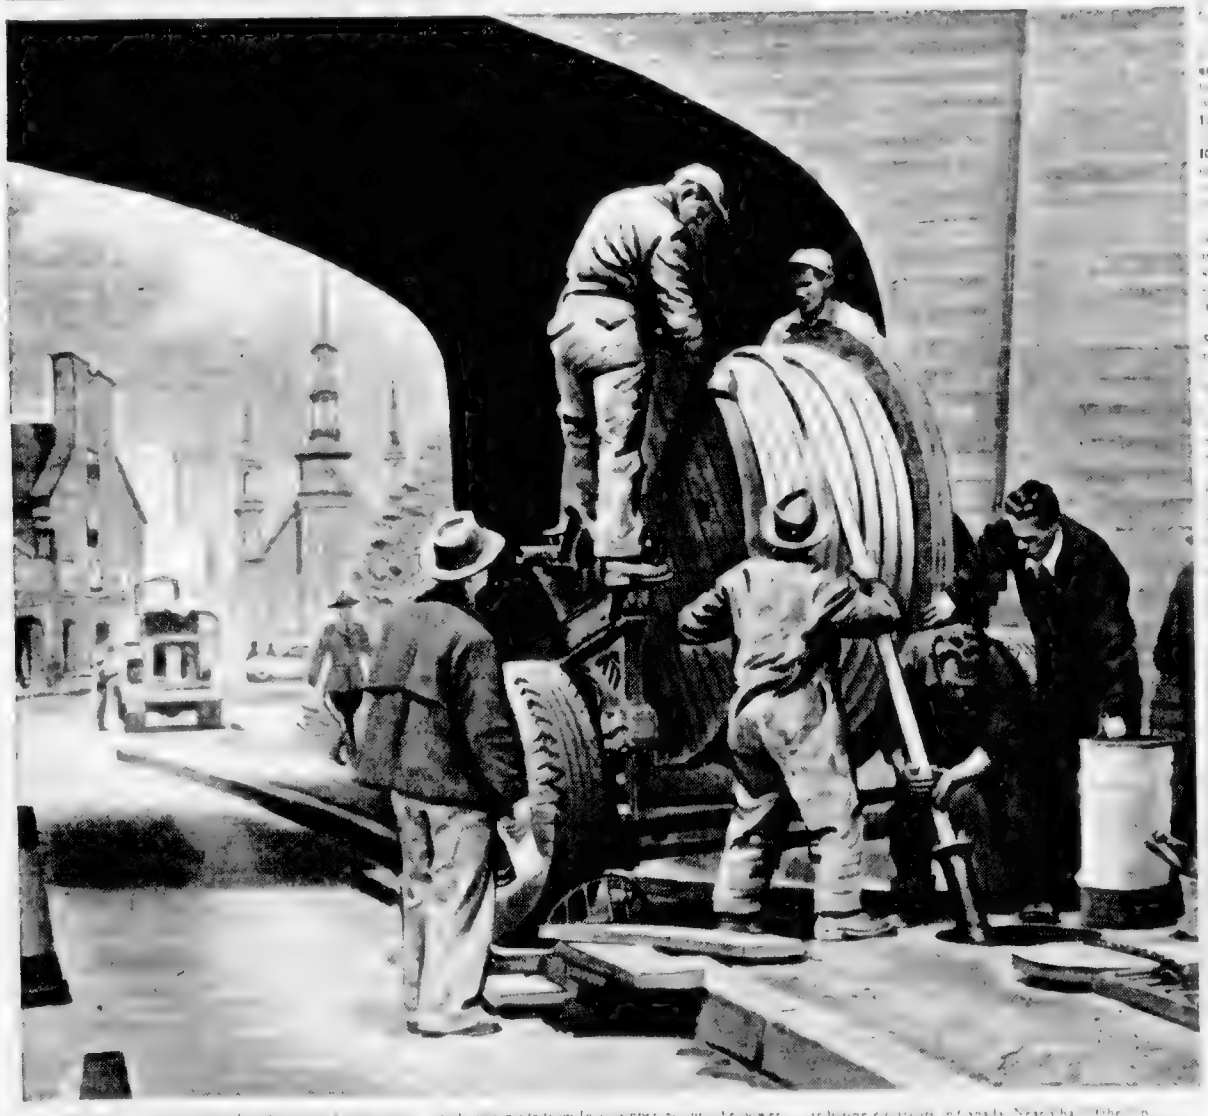
Inco Metals at Work in Canada



Cables made from INCO COPPER help bring you electricity . . . and provide jobs for Canadians

It takes thousands of miles of power cable to carry all the electricity Canadians use. And nearly half of the copper used in Canada's power cables comes from Inco. Through all the processing operations, this copper stays in Canada to help provide employment for Canadian men and women.

1. At Inco, Canadian workmen mine and smelt and refine the ore. About 8,000 people are employed by Inco in Canada.
2. Refined copper is used in Canada for the manufacture of wire and cable. Several thousand more people are employed in this work.
3. The copper wire and cable goes to power companies across Canada, installed by Canadian workmen.

From Inco copper, Canadian industries manufacture hundreds of useful products, thus helping provide employment for many thousands of men and women in Canada.

Bone-Chilled Quintet Saved Near Albernis

PORT ALBERNI — Disaster was averted but five life-jacketed persons were chilled to the bone before being picked out of Alberni inlet after their 14-foot open boat overturned Sunday evening.

Frank Detaye, his teen-age son, Ronnie, and three other youths were clinging to their overturned boat in mid-channel opposite Nahmint, 12 miles from here, when they were rescued.

Mr. and Mrs. M. I. Fredea witnessed the accident and within five minutes were helping the victims aboard their cabin cruiser. The Fredea's had left Nahmint Fishing Lodge for their Port Alberni home at the same time Deaye's party left for their Franklin River residences.

The Detaye boat was towed to a nearby beach for bailing out and then towed to his home.

She Was A Real Tartar

"Queen of the Tartar," might have been the nickname of a famous queen of the past ages, for history tells us that her natural teeth were so heavily bound together with tartar that she could remove and replace them at will, like an artificial denture.

Deposits of calculus (tartar) are a major cause of unhealthy gums. Other causes may be the irregularities resulting from early loss of foundation or permanent teeth; use of overcooked foods with resulting lack of exercise and stimulation; unbalanced diet, containing too much refined starchy and sugary matter, and a combination of these factors.

Unhealthy and diseased gums affect underlying bone of the jaws. Bone isn't solid and unchangeable; it absorbs — withdraws from sick, sluggish gums. And as it withdraws, its grip on the teeth is lessened. Teeth do not grow out of the jaw bone; the bone absorbs, withdraws from the teeth.

The predicament of the royal lady was an extreme example. Perhaps she was fortunate, for there were no artificial dentures to be had, in those days. But the odor around Her Majesty must have been such that there would be little difficulty keeping her subjects at a respectful distance.

More teeth are lost because of diseased or unhealthy gums than for any other reason—and almost always unnecessary.

Gums need exercise—the stimulation from chewing substantial fibrous foods. But our food, too often, is reduced by various means to a mushy pulp. After tartar is removed, exercise and stimulation must be produced artificially—by daily brisk massage of the gums with brush, or a special massaging instrument. Your dentist will tell you what is best for your particular needs.

Becoming a Queen or Prince of the Tartar may have its advantages—no need to have teeth removed, and the cost of dentures is avoided. But as a means of winning friends and influencing people (favorably), it leaves something to be desired.

Lumber Workers' Jobs Threatened

DUNCAN—Executive of the International Woodworkers of America union in Duncan were warned that they should start planning now to meet the threat of pulp mills to jobs at sawmill, shingle mill and plywood plants.

Jack Moore, financial secretary of the Alberni local, said "we saw this coming four years ago in Port Alberni."

"Negotiations have been carried on for three years to the point where we have secured an agreement that pulp mill employees will first of all be recruited from workers who will be displaced from their jobs in the sawmills, plywood plants and shingle mills," he said.

"Our job is easier than yours because we have only one employer to deal with, whereas you will have a multiplicity of employers."
